The Utah Muddle.

Judge Smith, at Orden, has decided that the women of legal age and qualifications in Utah are entitled to vote on the matter of the adoption of the new state constitution. As we understand it, however, this is not necessarily a finality, as the judgment can be taken up on appeal.

The question raised is an interesting one. Women formerly voted in Utah, but the Edmunds act deprived them of the privilege, presumably to reduce the Mormon power at the polls at that time. The act of congress enabling Utah to take the necessary steps to statehood provides for the framing of a constitution which is to be adopted or rejected by "the qualified voters of said proposed state," which language is ambiguous in not declaring whether women are voters

Under this act a state constitution has been framed which provides for woman suffrage. Of course this instrument is not yet operative, but the women claim they have the right to vote on its adoption. This contentien has been upheld by Judge Smith. The matter may lead to considerable delay in the admission of Utah; for, if the election should result in a Republican victory, which all the indications favor, the matter of women yoting on the adoption of the state constitution will be brought up in congress by the Democrats, to delay the admission of the state and the seating of two additional Republican senators, thus giving the control of the United States senate to that party.

Why Gold Goes Abroad. There are several reasons why Europe

mands gold from the United States treasury: 1-Europeane hold many American securities. In times of no con-fidence these are returned to America. That is the European holders turn their American paper into gold because they mistrust the stability of American investments, or our intentions or abilities to pay in gold. 2-Recently the administration sold $62,000,000 in bonds, of which English capitalists agreed to take half. This is a great drain on America. It is a drain in gold because these international debts are payable only in gold, 4-Europe demands and obtains American gold because we buy more in Europe than we sell. We have been in this unfortunate condition during the present tariff reform administration. Instead of doing our own manufacturing we are buying an increased amount of manufactured goods in Europe-while our own laboring men are idle.

These facts should receive the critical attention of every voter in all the states holding elections this year.
